

A Special Announcement from Liberty E-Free Church

A special announcement for Liberty E-Free Church attendees

May 6, 2020

The purpose of this announcement is to simply give you some very general bits of information regarding our hope to soon “regather” together for corporate worship at Liberty Evangelical Free Church. Many more details and instructions will follow in the days ahead to help you become more fully informed. We just wanted to provide you with some of the essential facts to start with.

First, we will NOT be gathering together for public worship THIS SUNDAY (May 10th). We encourage you to once again take advantage of our online worship service this Sunday.

Second, it is our intention to gather together for worship at Liberty E-Free Church the following Sunday, May 17th. Once again, we will soon be providing you with a myriad of details & instructions regarding how we intend to meticulously make our worship services safe through deliberate social distancing and sanitizing. Please don't jump to any false conclusions (or gossip) regarding these issues until you have been more fully informed.

Third, we want to emphasize and re-emphasize-- our desire is that you begin attending Liberty's corporate worship services when you (and/or your family) feels comfortable doing so. This is especially true for those people considered to be in a “high risk group” where being in public settings is still not recommended. For a few weeks after Liberty E-Free Church “regathers” together for its worship service, we will continue to provide an online service every Sunday morning for those who would feel more comfortable staying home (or required to do so).

Stay tuned for many more details and instructions coming your way. We simply wanted to get the word out regarding our intentions to worship corporately soon. You Are MISSED!!!
